This week, we were delighted to welcome our local library team into school to introduce this year's Summer Reading Challenge, "Read to the Beat." The colourful presentation highlighted how reading and music come together, encouraging children to explore stories inspired by rhythm, sound, and creativity.

Unfortunately, due to the recent spell of extreme heat, many pupils were absent and unable to attend the session. Those who were in school thoroughly enjoyed learning about the challenge and were excited to hear how they can take part over the summer holidays.

The "Read to the Beat" challenge invites children to read a selection of books, collect rewards, and stay motivated with fun, music-themed activities - all available through the local library. It is a fantastic way to keep reading skills sharp while having fun during the break.

We encourage all families, especially those who missed the visit, to sign up at their local library and join in the challenge. Let's keep the reading going all summer long, whatever the weather!
